PROPORTIONAL VOTING METHOD: Adopted 10/25/2006

A candidate needs to win a certain proportion of the votes to be elected. This winning fraction of the votes is referred to as "threshold". The threshold is determined by dividing the total number of valid ballots cast by the number of positions to be elected plus one and then adding one to the resulting dividend.

The ballots are counted in the following manner:

1. The count begins with the sorting of ballots by the first choice shown on each valid ballot. That is the NUMBER 1 vote on each ballot. This is known as the "First Count".
2. Any candidates who reach the necessary threshold with Number 1 votes are declared elected. Any extra ballots they receive beyond the threshold are redistributed to the candidates marked next in choice (the number 2 choice) on those surplus ballots.

3. The count continues with the elimination of those candidates receiving the least votes in the redistributed count. Their ballots are redistributed to the other candidates according to the next choice marked. After each distribution, the candidate now having the lowest number of votes is eliminated and his/her ballots redistributed to the next indicated choice (number 2, 3, 4 etc.)
4. As candidates reach the threshold through the addition of redistributed ballots to their totals, they are declared elected and no further ballots are transferred to them.
5. This process continues until all candidates have been eliminated except the required winners.
6. In the case of a tie for the last position, the decision will be made with a coin toss.
7. In the case of alternate elections, the order of elevation will be based on the order they were declared elected and the votes counted in the election round. In the case of a tie, the order will be determined by a coin toss.

SINGLE BALLOT VOTING METHOD: Adopted 10/25/2006

1. Each voting delegate will be given a ballot with a space for each of the allowed delegate or alternate positions. A name of a candidate may be written in each of the spaces provide, however a candidate's name can appear only once on a ballot. The ballot can have fewer names than the number of delegate or alternate positions.
2. The tally is recorded based on the number of votes and the top vote getters are elected for the available positions.
3. In the case of the alternates, the order of listing will be based on the vote count.
